

Meg Storer

Meg is a cis-gendered woman who identifies as bisexual. She was born and raised in Gorleston-On-Sea, Norfolk, and is the youngest of four siblings with large age gaps. During her life Meg has slowly learned to love and embrace herself for who she is: a very loud, chatty, colourful plus size woman.

Meg now spends her life and her studies dedicated to expressing her personality in all ways. As a neurodivergant learner, being dyslexic, dyspraxic and having ADHD, Meg has learnt that the way she sees the world and her career is often very different to others. She has learned that people will not always see her as she wants to be seen, and will make assumptions based on her size, dress sense and first impressions. This has not stopped her from embracing what makes her unique, instead choosing to dive into different aspects of her personality. She expresses herself through colourful hair dye, bright clothing and make up, different performance techniques such as performing bare foot or dancing whilst performing, and more. She loves to explore her femininity but is starting to explore the spectrum of androgyny.
